« Réussir Volailles is addressed to professionals in the three sectors — table eggs, broiler poultry, foie gras palmipeds — and operating in the upstream links (breeding and hatching, animal nutrition, production). Réussir Volailles provides them with an economic, technical and social analysis, focusing on the testimony of players and experts.

Our magazine takes an interest in discovering innovations and extraterritorial information likely to influence the sector's future. 2022 will be marked by a new editorial offer. »

NEW EDITORIAL OFFER

More complete, more responsive, more diversified, multi-media:
RÉUSSIR Volailles enriches its formula and asserts itself as the media for all poultry producers.

The world of poultry farming, like the rest of the agricultural world, has undergone profound changes in recent years. New societal expectations have emerged, new environmental constraints are imposed, and innovative marketing methods are developed.

For poultry farmers, this is characterised by the rise in importance of independent producers seeking new ways of adding value and greater versatility.

These changes have a direct impact on production methods in the poultry sector, with an increasing diversity of practices.

Your media Réussir Volailles is adapting to these changes. To meet your needs, it is adapting its formula. Your paper magazine will now be published every two months, with an increased pagination. This will allow us to continue to cover subjects in depth, whether technical, regulatory or economic, while offering a greater diversity of themes, covering all production areas.

To complete this background information, the content of the website continues to grow. Thanks to articles put online before the paper publication, and others exclusive for the web, we offer you more reactive information, in phase with current events. The web articles' enriched content also allows you to access new information (supplements, photos, videos) and to find articles that complete your reading with a click.

Our newsletters are also getting a makeover: more frequent, they will also be more diverse, with thematic newsletters that will simplify your access to informationn.

More than ever, Réussir Volailles strives to improve the performance (technical, economic, environmental) of all poultry farmers (meat, layers, foie gras, propagation) to provide them with reliable and useful information.

More complete, more reactive, more diversified, multi-media: your Réussir Volailles issue is asserting itself as the media for all poultry producers.
